

9-1-1 For Life

Time is of the essence when a life hangs in the balance. TBR's child friendly Teletrainer is designed to help enable children to be proactive in the most serious situations. The Teletrainer system includes easy to use instructions along with a step by step coloring book to help teach young children how to properly use the telephone.

Tele-Trainer® Basics

The 9-1-1 Tele-Trainer system has been designed around the educational needs of young children. Effective teaching is accomplished through a child's active participation on the telephone. The Tele-Trainer allows the child to learn about the proper operation of a telephone through the use of actual telephone sets. The Tele-Trainer, unlike a toy, uses the same signals heard during a normal telephone call. If a child dials the wrong number he or she will get a simulated "busy signal" indicating that the call did not complete. All training can be reinforced in the classroom and at home through the use of our Tele-Trainer coloring Book.

CONTROLLING THE SITUATION

While 9-1-1 training is the primary focus behind the Tele-Trainer, it may not be the only number you want to teach. New 3-1-1 service is adding to the complexity of emergency dialing patterns. With Tele-Trainer you can teach children which numbers to dial in different situations. To change the programmed telephone number simply lift the instructor handset and dial the new number followed by a "#" sign. After you hang up the new training can begin.

Tele-Trainer 1-0-1

To use the Tele-Trainer, simply connect two push-button telephones to the jacks labeled Student and Instructor. When the Tele-Trainer is first turned on, the default number is 9-1-1. This Tele-Trainer can easily be taught to dial any telephone number that the instructor requires. The child will hear a dial tone when the handset is removed from the cradle. If the correct number is dialed, the Tele-Trainer will "ring". The instructor can then talk to the student from the instructor telephone. Incorrect numbers will trigger a "busy signal" response from the Tele-Trainer.

All Children need some basic training in 9-1-1 procedure.
